CITY PRIBON .- At the City Prison yesterday six persons were received, two discharged, and forty-two sent to work on the hill-side.

ABUSING AN OFFICER .- Peter Gwinn was fined $3 and costs by Judge Lowe, yesterday, for abusing Officer Bulley. The officers have hard times enough in attending to their duties, without being subjected to the abuse of drunken and belligerent individuals.

PETIT LARGERY .- Mary Smith, while intoxicated night before last, entered the dry goods store of Mr. O. S. Stephenson, No. 202 Fifth-street, and stole a bolt of muslin. She plead guilty to the charge in the Police Court yesterday, and Judge Lowe sent her to the County Jail for the term of six months.

CONCERT AT GLENDALE .-- By reference to an advertisement in another column, it will be seen that Mrs. Varian James, assisted by Madame Rive and Signor Alfai, will give a grand concert at Glendale this evening. The last train of cars for the city will leave Glendale at half-past nine o'clock.

PRESENTATION .- Heretofore the Tenth Ward has been entitled to the Republican banner, but at the last election the Eleventh Ward carried off the prise. The aforesaid will be transferred this evening with appropriate ceremonies, at the Engine-house, junction of Hamilton road and Vine street. A band of music will be in attendance.

CITY PASSENGER RAILROAD .- A hand of music will accompany the five new cars from I. & B. Bruce's manufactory—which will be placed on the track of the City Passenger Street Railroad line to day. Trips will made every ten minutes, commencing at half-past five o'clock A. M., and running until half-past eleven o'clock P. M.

WHERE IS STRONG?—Mr. Strong, of the Eighth Ward—Strong morally, physically and politically—who took Strong grounds against the Mayor and his police, at the meeting of the American Association night before last, is—"whar?" His Honor is anxious to see him. If he has not gone in search of our gray pony, we hope he will "turn up."

THE THRONG.—Having fifteen minutes leisure, (surprising, but true,) we sat at our door and counted in that space of time near four hundred people passing either way to and fro. At a reasonable calculation, then, from nineteen to twenty thousand people pass our office from six in the morning to six in the evening. Perhaps the Penny Press has something to do with it, and makes the number passing hereabouts larger than elsewhere.

Not TRUE.—The report put in circulation a few days since, that the Cincinnati Street Railroad Company would not complete their line to the Brighton House, is untrue. Workmen were laboring on Freeman-street yesterday, and the line will be completed as fast as men and money can put it through. The Company is also running omnibuses on their routes free of charge, so that passengers can routes free of charge, so that passengers can make connexion with either of their lines. Bear this in mind.

DEDICATION TO-MORROW .- The new Mission Chapel, erected on the west side of Plum-street, near Front, under the direction of the Cincinnear Front, under the direction of the Cincin-nati Ladies' Home Missionary Society, will be dedicated to the worship of Aimighty God, to-morrow morning at half-past ten o'clock, Bishop Morris officiating. A sermon will be delivered by Dr. D. W. Clark, editor of the Ladies' Itepository. Sabbath School at two o'clock P. M.; preaching at three and seven o'clock P. M.

Assest or Disospenies.—Officers Shriver, Brunstrip, Jacobi, and Bliss, made a descent on a coffee-house kept by a German, at the junction of Front and Fifth-streets, night before last, and arrested six persons who were annoying the neighborhood by making all kinds of noise. Complaints have been made to the officers for some time past against this place, but they were unable until last evening to make an arrest. The parties were tried by Judge Lowe yesterday, and fined $3 and costs. and costs.

How to ADVERTISE .- A business man was met by a jocose allusion to his peculiar mode of advertising. In answer he told the following anecdote: He said that a highly esteemed friend once remonstrated with him concerning his extraordinary advertisements, and asked: "Why would not a few lines do as well as the repetition of the same in that rediculous manner, all over the whole that or heat?" The repetition of the same in that ridiculous manner, all over the whole sheet or sheets?" The business man replied: "If you had seen only the few lines, would you have asked me any questions?" What answer could have been more appropriate? This advertising method struck people as strange, made them take notice, and consequently impressed the fact of the projected Schiller Festival.

Same of the same in that ridiculous manner and the struck people in that ridiculous manner appropriate? The same of the whole sheet or sheets?" The same of the will have a hearing before Judge Lowe to-day.

Same of the same in that ridiculous manner appropriate? The same of the whole sheet or sheets?" The was arrested yesterday on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, on Sixth-street. He will have a hearing before olothes, dryp in at Friel & McGuire's Talloring establishment, at No. 256 Walnut-street, and have them take your measure. The indressments they offer to the public warrants large patronage. Go and consequently impressed the fact of the projected Schiller Feetival.

LAW REPORT.

Vardice.—In the case of Dunseith vs. The Owners of the Steamboat Mars. Tried before Judge Headly, to recover for pilot's wages. The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for Ssir.

APPLICATION TO DIRMSS AN ATTACHERY.—McConcey to Harris. Judge Spencer disposed of a motion on the part of defendant, to dissolve as attachment, issued on the 5th of October. From an examination of the writ it appeared that the Sheriff had attached a stock of drugs and the fixtures, in the store lately occupied by defendant on the corner of Fourth and Main-streets—and that the property had been appraised at $5,170. It was issued on the ground (as set forth) that defendant had concealed, or made a fraudelent disposition of his property; this allegation being predicated on the facts claimed to exist by the plaintiff, and stated as follows: That defendant was indebted to plaintiff for rent of his store, $1,350; that when called on by the agent of plaintiff, after various pretexts and promises of settlement, he finally, on the 4th of October, when called upon for an adjustment, stated that he sold out the store to his son, and refused to give satisfaction in regard to the terms of sale.

The defendant in his affidavit states that nearly $6,000 of his wife's money was invested in the business, all of which was secured by notes given to her rother as trustee; that in September, he (Harris) was negotiating for the sale of the concern, and proposed to give plaintiff's agent (Mr. Newell,) two of the ontes, either as security or in payment, but that the negotiation was broken off by N.'s interposing. Finally, he transferred the stock to his son, M. Electris, as trustee for his wife in payment of her claim.

Other affidavits were also exhibited, in which the SUPRRIOR COURT.

the association was broken off by N.'s interposing. Finally, be transferred the stock to his son, M. E. Histrik, as trustee for his wife in payment of her claim.

Other affidavits were also exhibited, in which the parties state that defendant had communicated to them in a business way, that the establisment was carried on with funds of his wife.

It was proper (remarked the Court) for the agent of plaintiff to make inquiry in the circumstances of the sale, he being a creditor, and to learn what expectations he might justly have of payment. The information, he alleges, was not given to him, and certainly, the sale of an entire stock without any apparent showing of its propriety or impropriety, would lay the foundation for an affidavit of this description, and the issuing of an attacement. There is no just cause of complaint, therefore, against the attaching creditor.

The question the Court was called on to decide was, whether, under all the evidence it appeared clearly that a fraud was perpetrated or intended; and that could be answered only by propounding another—whether there was any real indebtedness to Morgan & Harris, as trustee for Mrs. H., which could be the subject matter of sale or conveyance?

A debtor in failing circumstances may make a conveyance, the object of which is payment of an honest debt; but in all sales made to intimate friends, or to a party of one's own household, there is always a stronger tendency to scrutiny and suspicion than where they are made to ordinary purchasers.

It was tolerably apparent that it was a matter understood by those who did business with defendant including the agent of the plaintiff, that the capital invested in his stors belonged to his wife. It was not, however, clear to the mind of the Court that the full consideration for all this indebtedness was accounted for—at least so expressly as it ought to be in a case of this description.

In addition to this proceeding, the purchaser had been served with a garnishee process; so, that, supposing the plaintiff's claim

SMITH & NILON'S HALL.—Cocheu's enter-tainment last evening, censisting of historical scenes, represented in living tableaux, was one of considerable merit, meeting with hearty applause from the audience, there being a goodly number present. The genuine Indians are quite a featue in representing aboriginal scenes in breathing pictures. The white horse who took part in the play, (not our gray poor,) behaved with becoming decorum, and evinced that his education had not been neglected. d handsome compliment to a team fire-nagines, and predicted that they would supersede all others. He closed by again extending a hearty welcome to the visitors.

Mayor Hawkins being unable to be present, Mr. Fearans, on behalf of the municipality, extended a welcome to the Neptures, stating that he rejoiced to see such a comminging or people from the different states and sections, yet acknowledging a single nationality and a common brotherhood. He, too, referred to the courtesies extended by the Dayton firement to the Wachington, of Nowport, when on a visit to the former place. This, said he, is not the first comminging of the people of Ohio and Kontacky, they had stood shoulder to shoulder, and fallen side by pide, on many a hard fought battle-field—they had dune so once, they would do so again. He considered that while such a feeling existed as he then witnessed, that the Union was safe beyond a peradventure.

Three cheers were then given for the Nepture Fire Company, and three more for the State they represented.

Mr. F. P. Cuppy, President of the Dayton Company, then responded in a short speech, fall of point and patriotism. He said that their reception had exceeded all expectations; they had come on a visit, and had found their entry a triumphal procession. He had not looked to be welcomed by banners and the firing of cannous.

He had not expected a greating from the ladies nor youth, decorated and wreathed for the occasion. He felt as if standing upon consecrated ground. The Ohio River did not separate, but united the two States. He paid a handsome tribute to Henry Clar, which was loudly cheered.

A procession was then formed, and all marched to the house of Mr. James Berry, to partake of some refreshments, preparatory to dinner. At about two o'clock the guests were taken to the Barlow House, where they dimod. After this they proceeded to Uovington, and paraded the sirvess for a considerable time and then returned. They called on Mr. Fearons, Mejor Caldwell and others of our citisens, and were entertained

A rogue has been defined to be a roundabout fool-a fool in circumbendibus. The exposed condition of those peorly trained in habits of daily labor, subjects them to a great many thoughtless acts which, lightly esteemed at first, are sure to lead to crime. The decision they make to get a living by wrong-doing, is a confession of great personal weakness, and of a lack of faith in one's own powers. The discovery that he is a fool and a rogue, come at last, and with is s poor amount of courage to return to a state of purity. We caution all young men, particularly of the working classes, to have a better opinion of their own worth and usefulness, than ever to demean themselves by roguish arts. They hurry one down to orime. We give a word of caution to those of better advantages, to beware of their example, for rogues in rags are kept in countenance by rogues in ruffles.

The Grand Confidence.

The character gained by fidelity to promises is worth more than money, and is not of a day's growth. All remember the anecdote of the Frenchman who was satisfied to leave his money in the bank, if he only had "the grand confidence." Panetuality to engagements gives present and future reward. There is no necessity for breaking your word. In the first place, never promise anything unless you know it to be in your power to falfil; and, in the second place, make up your mind before you promise, that whatever you do promise, you will fulfil. By so doing, you will gain and enjoy the confidence of those around you. When such a character is established, it will be of more value than ermine, gold or princely diadems. This appeal to young working men should not be without effect, for it is, if followed, a security for success as sure as a collatteral of a well indorsed note.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE OF WALKING .- Mr. Grow, a cousin of Hon. Wm. Grow, of Pennsylvania, started from this city about the 1st of August, 1858, and walked to Catifornia, and returned on foot to this place in the ensuing October. Early this spring, accompanied by his son, of fifteen years, Mr. Grow departed from here and walked (son also) to the Missouri River, and from that point a goodly part of the distance to Washington, D. C.; they remained in the Capital but a short time, and started on the return trip: reached the Missouri River, and the Capital but a short time, and started on the return trip: reached the Missouri River, and the Capital but a short time, and started on the return trip; reached the Mis-souri from Washington in the same way that they went from the former place to the latter, when the son got an opportunity to ride and drive a team to within four or five hundred miles of this city, and came in on foot the re-mainder of the distance; the father returned on foot the full distance from Atchison, Kansas. We know of but few, if any, instances on secord wherein men have voluntarily subjected themselves to such lengthy, harrassing jour-neys on foot as Mr. G. did in these cases; and the fortitude of the youthful son draws forth mingled admiration and astonishment from all. Salt Lake City Valley Tan.

A SEVERE WINTER PREDICTED .- The St. Louis Express tells the following, and predicts from the facts a severe winter:

About ten days sgo a tremendous drove of about ten days sgo a tremendous drove of gray squirrels, numbering hundreds of thousands, auddenly made their appearance on the Merrimac, covering the trees and waters like a pall. Thousands of them were afterward found dead in the river and on the ground. They crossed the Mississippi at that point and worked their way down the river, until on Wednesday they reached Cape Girardeau, crossing the river at that point in countless myriads. The citizens tunned out countless myriads. The citizens tuned out ADAMS & PECKOVER,
Inventors and Manufacturers,

In mass, and killed them by hundreds.
Every tree and bush in that vicinity swarmed with them until night, when they all disappeared and have not been heard of since. Their route was marked as by a devastating storm. Trees were girdled and fields destroyed. Old French settlers predict a severe winter, as it was noticed in 1834 and 1852, that immense droves of squirrels made their appearance, followed by intensely severe weather.

"His Excullency."—Massachusetts is the only State in the Union which, by a constitutional provision, grants the title of "Excellency" to its Governor. Newspapers sometimes speak of the President of the United States as "His Excellency, the President," but there is no legal sanction for this, the founders of the Government having decided, after dis-A committee of the Senate reported in favor of the style "His Highness," but the House opposed any other title of office than those expressed in the constitution. So says the new American Cyclopædia.

Domestic Tragedy.—Last week a divorce suit was tried at Houlton, says the Bangor (Mc.) Times, in which Mrs. Colbroth, daughter of Levi Berry, Esq., of Smyrna, was libelant, who sought a separation from her husband on the ground of his drankenness and cruelty. The libeles alleged, in defense, improper conduct on the part of his wife, but without sustaining the same. Mrs. Berry, although the verdict was in favor of hes daughter, was so deeply wrought upon by this trial and the circumstances of the case, as is supposed, that she committed suicide by supposed, that she committed suicide by drowning herself in a brook near her house.

A man named Daniel Stafford, stole a pair of oxen near Detroit last week, and in fourteen hours from the commission of the deed, he had been arrested, tried, convicted, and was on his way to the State Prison under a sentence for three years. This was pretty quick work, but commendable and worthy of imitation in older communities.

Dr. Johnson, the great "levisthan of literature," was, as is well known, an immense tea drinker; but in Philadelphia there is a gentleman who beats the burly Doctor, as he has been known to drink twenty-one good sized cups of tea at one sitting!
